

REVISED
Second Edition

THE IDEAL MUSLIM

The True Islamic Personality of The Muslim
Man as Defined in The Quran and Sunnah

شخصية المسلم
كما يطورها الإسلام في الكتاب والسنة إنجليزي

Dr. Muhammad Ali Al Hashimi

Translated by Nasiruddin Al Khattab

الدار العالمية للكتاب الإسلامي

International Islamic Publishing House

IIPH

Contents

Publisher's Note	xii
Translator's Foreword	xiii
Introduction	01
Chapter 1
The Muslim and His Rabb	07
The believer is alert	07
Obedient to the commands of his Rabb	07
He has a sense of responsibility for those under his authority	08
He accepts the will and decree of Allāh (ﷻ)	09
The one who turns to Allāh (ﷻ) in repentance	09
His main concern is the pleasure of his Rabb	10
He regularly performs the duties and good deeds required by Islām	11
He is a true slave of Allāh (ﷻ)	23
He often reads Qur'an	25
Chapter 2
The Muslim and His Own Self	27
Introduction	27
1-His Body	28
Moderation in food and drink	28
He exercises regularly	29
His body and clothes are clean	30
Good appearance	34
2-His Mind	38
Knowledge is an obligation and an honour for the Muslim	38
Continuously seeking knowledge until death	39

What a Muslim needs to know	41
The Muslim should be proficient in his speciality	42
The Muslim exposes himself to information about other fields	43
The Muslim is proficient in a foreign language	43
3-The Muslim's Soul	44
The Muslim polishes his soul through worship	45
He keeps company with righteous people and joins religious gatherings	46
He frequently repeats du'ā's and supplications described in ḥadīths	47
Chapter 3
The Muslim and His Parents	49
Treating them with kindness and respect (birr)	49
He recognizes their status and knows his duties towards them	49
He is kind and respectful towards them even if they are not Muslim	54
He is extremely reluctant to disobey them	54
His mother comes first, then his father	55
He treats his parents' friends well	57
How does he show kindness and respect towards them?	59
Chapter 4
The Muslim and His Wife	63
Islāmic view of marriage and woman	63
The ideal Muslim's wife	64
He follows the guidance of Islām in his married life	66
The true Muslim is an ideal husband	70
One of the most successful husbands	77
He understands his wife and respects her feelings	77
He helps her to make up for her failings and weaknesses	78

He knows how to strike a balance between pleasing his wife and treating his mother with due kindness and respect	78
He fully understands his role as a protector and maintainer (qawwām) of his wife	78
Chapter 5
The Muslim and His Children	85
Introduction	85
He understands his great responsibility towards his children	86
He uses the best methods in bringing them up	87
He demonstrates his love and affection for them	89
He spends on them, willingly and generously	91
He does not discriminate between sons and daughters in his affection and spending	92
He is alert to everything that may have an influence on them	94
He equally treats all his children	96
He instills good behaviour and attitudes in them	97
Chapter 6
The Muslim and His Relatives	99
(Arḥām)	99
Islāmic view of kinship ties	99
The Muslim upholds the ties of kinship according to the teachings of Islām	105
He maintains the ties of kinship even if his relatives are not Muslim	108
He fully understands the meaning of upholding the ties of kinship	109
He maintains the ties of kinship even if his relatives fail to do so	110

Chapter 7

The Muslim and His Neighbours 113

- He is the best of people in his dealings with his neighbours 113
- He is aware of the Islāmic teachings concerning good treatment of neighbours 113
- The true Muslim is tolerant towards his neighbour 115
- He likes for his neighbour what he likes for himself 115
- The misery that befalls humanity because of the lack of true Islāmic morals and manners 116
- The Muslim treats his neighbour in the best way he can 118
- His generosity is directed towards both Muslim and non-Muslim neighbours 119
- He starts with the neighbour whose home is closest to his own 120
- The true Muslim is the best neighbour 121
- Bad neighbours 122
- The bad neighbour is a person who is deprived of the blessing of faith 122
- The bad neighbour is a person whose good deeds are not accepted 123
- The true Muslim is careful to avoid falling into sin where his neighbour is concerned 124
- His good treatment of his neighbour is not lacking 126
- He puts up with his neighbour's mistakes and bad treatment 127
- He does not give tit-for-tat 128
- He knows his neighbour's rights over him 128

Chapter 8

The Muslim and His Friends and Brothers In Islām 131

- He loves them for the sake of Allāh (ﷻ) 131
- The status of two who love one another for the sake of Allāh (ﷻ) 131

The effect of love for the sake of Allāh (ﷻ) on the life of the Muslims	135
He does not forsake or abandon his brother	136
He is tolerant and forgiving towards them	140
He meets them with a smiling face	141
He is sincere towards them	142
He has a natural inclination towards kindness and faithfulness	145
He is kind to his brothers	147
He does not gossip about them	148
He avoids arguing with them, making hurtful jokes and breaking promises	150
He is generous and prefers his brothers over himself	150
He prays for his brothers in their absence	157

Chapter 9

The Muslim and His Community/Society 159

Introduction	159
He is truthful	160
He does not cheat, deceive or stab in the back	160
He is not envious	162
He is sincere	165
He keeps his promises	167
He has a good attitude towards others and treats them well	169
He is characterized by shyness (hayā)	174
He is gentle towards people	175
He is compassionate and merciful	179
He is tolerant and forgiving	182
He is easy-going in his business dealings	187
He is of cheerful countenance	187
He has a sense of humour	188
He is patient	192
He avoids cursing and foul language	195

He does not falsely accuse anyone of fisq or kufir	198
He is modest and discreet	198
He does not interfere in that which does not concern him	201
He refrains from backbiting and slander	202
He avoids giving false statements	204
He avoids suspicion	205
He keeps secrets	207
He does not converse privately with another person when there is a third person present	210
He is not arrogant or proud	211
He is humble and modest	213
He does not make fun of anyone	215
He respects elders and distinguished people	215
He mixes with people of noble character	219
He strives for people's benefit and seeks to protect them from harm	222
He strives to reconcile between Muslims	228
He calls people to the truth	230
He enjoins what is good and forbids what is evil	232
He is wise and eloquent in his da'wah	236
He is not a hypocrite	238
He does not show off or boast	242
He is straightforward and consistent in his adherence to the truth	245
He visits the sick	247
He attends funerals	251
He repays favours and is grateful for them	257
He mixes with people and puts up with their insults	258
He tries to make people happy	260
He guides others to righteous deeds	261
He is easy on people, not hard	262
He is fair in his judgement of people	263
He does not oppress or mistreat others	264
He loves noble things and always aims high	266

His speech is not exaggerated or affected	266
He does not rejoice in the misfortunes of others	267
He is generous	267
He does not remind the beneficiaries of his charity	281
He is hospitable	282
He prefers others to himself	286
He helps to alleviate the burden of the debtor	287
He is proud and does not beg	290
He is friendly and likeable	290
He checks his customs and habits against Islāmic standards	293
He follows Islāmic manners in the way he eats and drinks	298
Spreading the greeting of salām	305
He does not enter a house other than his own without permission	309
He sits wherever he finds room in a gathering	313
He avoids yawning in a gathering as much as he can	315
He follows the Islāmic etiquette when he sneezes	316
He does not look into other people's houses	318
He does not imitate women	318
Conclusion	321
Glossary	329
Symbols Directory	338
Transliteration Chart	339