

FACTS AND FIGURES

MALAYSIA NATIONAL POPULATION AND FAMILY DEVELOPMENT PROGRAMME

PREPARED BY:

DATIN DR. NOOR LAILY BT.DATO' ABU BAKAR

DR.TAN BOON ANN,

RAMLI OTHMAN AND

KUAN LIN CHEE

1982

HARGA: $5.00

CONTENTS

	PAGE
CHAPTER 1: THE LAND AND THE PEOPLE	1-2
1.1. Geographical and Climatic Background	1
1.2. The People:- Religion, Family System and Marriage System	1-2
CHAPTER II: THE DEMOGRAPHIC PROFILE OF MALAYSIA	3-49
2.1. Introduction	3-4
2.2. Population size and growth rates	4-10
2.2.1. Past, Present Trends in Population Size and Growth	4-7
2.2.2. Prospects of Future Population Growth in Peninsular Malaysia	7-10
2.3. Natural Increase, Fertility and Mortality Levels	11-36
2.3.1. The Emergence of the Demographic Transition in Malaysia	11-13
2.3.2. Trends in Fertility, Mortality and Natural Increase	13-26
2.3.2.1. Trends in 1947-1957	13-17
2.3.2.2. Trends in 1957-1964	17-21
2.3.2.3. Trends in 1964-1970	21-22
2.3.2.4. Trends in 1970-1979	22-23
2.3.2.5. Prospects of the Future Crude Birth Rate (CBR) Trend	23-26
2.3.3. Decomposition of the Crude Birth Rates	26-30
2.3.4. Analysis of the Age-Specific Fertility Rates	30-31
2.3.5. Analysis of the Marital Age-Specific Fertility Rates	31-36
2.4. Population Structure and Distribution	36-49
2.4.1. Ethnic Composition	37-38
2.4.2. Age-Sex Distribution	38-42
2.4.3. Marital Structure	42-49
CHAPTER III: THE SOCIO-ECONOMIC STATUS OF MALAYSIA	50-61
3.1. The Malaysian Economy and National Income	50-52
3.2. Education and the Literacy Rate	52-54
3.3. The Health Status and Life Expectancy	54-58
3.4. Manpower Development, Labour Force and Employment	59-61

CHAPTER IV: THE NATIONAL POPULATION AND FAMILY DEVELOPMENT PROGRAMME – A HISTORICAL REVIEW AND ORGANIZATIONAL STRUCTURE	62–79
4.1. Introduction	62–63
4.2. The Population Concept	63–67
4.3. History of the Family Planning Programme in Malaysia.	67–68
4.4. Population Policy	68–69
4.5. Functions of the National Population and Family Development Programme	69–70
4.6. The Population/Family Development Strategy	71–72
4.7. The National Goals	72–74
4.8. Organizational Structure of the National Family Planning Board	74–75
4.9. Coordination for the National Programme	76–79
CHAPTER V: STATUS OF THE NATIONAL POPULATION AND FAMILY DEVELOPMENT PROGRAMME	80–102
5.1. Implementation of the National Programme	80–88
5.1.1. Changes in Strategies and Programme Implementation	82–83
5.1.2. Strategies in programme implementation	83–88
5.2. Funding of the Total National Programme	88–95
5.2.1. Introduction	88–90
5.2.2. Population Project I (1973 – 1978)	90–91
5.2.2.1. Functions and Activities	90–91
5.2.2.2. Financial allocations for Population Project I (1973 – 1978)	91
5.2.3. Population and Family Health Project (1979–1982)	92–93
5.2.3.1. Objectives	92
5.2.3.2. Activities	92
5.2.3.3. Financial allocation for Population and Family Health Project (1979–1982)	93
5.2.4. Financial allocation for ASEAN Population Project Phase I	93
5.2.5. Financial allocation for ASEAN/Australian Population Project Phase II (1980–83).	94

	PAGE
5.2.6. Second UNFPA Contribution to the Malaysian Population and Family Development Programme.	94
5.2.7. Future Implication.	95
5.3. Staffing Pattern of the Total National Programme.	95–100
5.3.1. National Family Planning Board Personnel.	95–96
5.3.2. Federation of Family Planning Associations Malaysia Personnel.	96–98
5.3.3. Ministry of Health Personnel involved in the Integration Programme.	98–100
5.4. Contraceptive Supply.	101–102
CHAPTER VI: PERFORMANCE AND ACHIEVEMENT OF THE NATIONAL PROGRAMME	103–135
6.1. The Contraceptive Service Coverage.	103–111
6.1.1. Target and Achievement.	105–107
6.1.2. Coverage of Eligible Women and High Risk Mothers.	107–111
6.2. The Training Coverage.	112–113
6.2.1. Performance of the Training Activities.	112–113
6.3. The Information—Education—Communication (IEC) Coverage.	113–123
6.3.1. Performance of IEC Activities.	114–116
6.3.2. Specific Objectives of the National Development Support Communication System	116–117
6.3.3. Programme areas of the National Development Support Communication System.	117–123
6.4. The Evaluation, Socio-Economic and Demographic Research Coverage.	123–127
6.4.1. Performance of Evaluation, Socio-Economic and Demographic Research Activities.	124–127
6.5. The Medical, Sociological and Biological Research Coverage.	127–130
6.5.1. Performance of Medical, Sociological and Biological Activities.	127–130
6.6. The Library and Documentation Centre of the National Family Planning Board.	130–132
6.6.1. Services to the National Family Planning Board.	131
6.6.2. Acceptors Library Services.	131
6.6.3. ASEAN Computer System Library Services.	132
6.7. The Population, Family Health and Family Development Project.	132–135

PAGE	PAGE
CHAPTER VII: SOME SOCIO-ECONOMIC CHARACTERISTICS OF THE ACCEPTORS.	136-140
7.1. Younger Age-Groups Accepting.	136
7.2. Lower Parity Acceptance.	137
7.3. Shorter Open-Interval.	137-138
7.4. More Spacing.	139-140
7.5. Shorter Duration of Marriage.	140
CHAPTER VIII: WHAT THE SURVEYS REVEAL?!!	141-148
8.1. The West Malaysian Family Survey, 1966-1967- The Baseline KAP Survey.	141-142
8.2. The 1969 Family Planning Acceptor Follow-up Survey, West Malaysia.	142-143
8.3. The 1970 Post Enumeration/Knowledge, Attitude and Practice Survey.	143
8.4. The Defaulter Survey, 1971.	143-144
8.5. The Malaysian Fertility and Family Survey, 1974-1975.	144-145
8.6. Staff Baseline Survey in the Intensive Input Demonstration Areas, 1975.	145
8.7. Family and Health Survey in IIDA's 1976/1977.	146
8.8. Family and Health Survey in the Federal Territory and Petaling Jaya, 1977.	146-147
8.9. Family Planning Acceptor Survey: 1977.	147
8.10. Second Family and Health Survey in Intensive Input Demonstration Areas (IIDA), 1979.	147-148
CHAPTER IX: INDICATORS OF PROGRAMME IMPACT	149-159
9.1. The Impact of Family Planning/Contraceptive on Fertility Behaviour.	149-152
9.2. Trends of Knowledge, Attitude and Practice (KAP) of Family Planning.	152-153
9.3. Family Planning Programme Effects on Fertility Rates of Acceptors.	153-157
9.3.1. Results of the Study.	153-154
9.3.2. Difference in Fertility by Age.	154-157
9.4. Impact of the Malaysian National Family Planning Programme On The Birth Rate - A Comparison of Matched Acceptors Versus Non-Acceptors Birth Rates.	157-159

CHAPTER X: FUTURE PROSPECTS AND SCOPE FOR THE NATIONAL POPULATION AND FAMILY DEVELOPMENT PROGRAMME.		160-163
10.1	Introduction.	160
10.2	Major Linkages between Population and Socio-Economic change.	160-161
10.2.1.	Population and economic growth.	160
10.2.2.	Population and Labour.	160
10.2.3.	Population and Basic Needs.	160
10.2.4.	Other Linkages.	161
10.3.	The Linkages in Malaysian Policy.	161
10.4.	National Family Planning Board's Role in Future Formulation of Development Plans.	161-163
	Glossary	164-169
	References	170-173

LIST OF TABLES

		PAGE
Table 2.1.	Population of Malaysia (Census 1911–1980).	4
Table 2.2.	Population and annual percentage changes for intercensal periods.	5
Table 2.3.	Population size and growth rates for Malaysia, Peninsular Malaysia, Sabah and Sarawak.	6
Table 2.4.	Projected annual rate of growth of population, Peninsular Malaysia – Year 1975–2150.	9
Table 2.5.	Projected annual rate of growth of population, Peninsular Malaysia – 1975–1995.	10
Table 2.6.	Projected Total Fertility rates by ethnic groups, Peninsular Malaysia, 1975–2030 (at initial period when replacement level is reached).	10
Table 2.7.	Trends in the CBR, GFR and CDR in Peninsular Malaysia: 1947–1980.	13
Table 2.8(a)	Crude birth rate, crude death rate, and rate of natural increase for Malaysia, Peninsular Malaysia (1947–1980).	14
Table 2.8.(b)	Crude birth rate, crude death rate and rate of natural increase for Sabah and Sarawak (1947–1980).	15
Table 2.9.(a)	Crude birth rates by ethnicity, 1947–1980 (Per 1,000 population).	18
Table 2.9(b)	Crude death rates by ethnicity, 1947–1980 (Per 1,000 population).	19
Table 2.10.	Percentage decline in the crude birth and death rate by period for Peninsular Malaysia.	21
Table 2.11.	Estimated annual decline in crude birth rates (CBR) and expected year of achievement of crude birth rate of 26 per 1,000 population for Peninsular Malaysia and for different ethnic groups.	24
Table 2.12.	Changes in age-sex structure, median age at first marriage, and total marital fertility rate for Peninsular Malaysia and for the different ethnic groups: (year: 1957–1977).	25
Table 2.13.	Effects of changes in age-sex structure, marital structure and marital fertility on the observed crude birth rate changes, 1970–1977, by ethnicity in Peninsular Malaysia.	27
Table 2.14.	Percentage contributions from changes in age-sex structure, marital structure, and marital fertility to the observed change in the crude birth rate between 1970 and 1977 for the different ethnic groups in Peninsular Malaysia: Application of a decomposition technique.	28
Table 2.15.	Contributions (%) from changes in age-sex structure, marital structure and marital fertility to the observed changes in the crude birth rates for the different ethnic groups in Peninsular Malaysia: 1958–70, 1960–69 and 1970–77.	29

	PAGE
Table 2.16.	Percentage decline in the age-specific fertility and total fertility rates in Peninsular Malaysia, 1957–1967 and 1967–79.	31
Table 2.17.	Age specific and total fertility rates per 1,000 women in Peninsular Malaysia, 1957–1979.	32
Table 2.18.	Malay age specific and total fertility rates per 1,000 women in Peninsular Malaysia, 1957–1979	33
Table 2.19.	Chinese age specific and total fertility rates per 1,000 women in Peninsular Malaysia, 1957–1979	34
Table 2.20.	Indians age specific and total fertility rates per 1,000 women in Peninsular Malaysia, 1957–1979	35
Table 2.21.	Marital age specific fertility rates by ethnicity for Peninsular Malaysia, 1957, 1970, 1977.	36
Table 2.22.	Population distribution/density of States in Malaysia.	38
Table 2.23.	Percentage distribution of population in gazetted towns of 10,000 persons and over: Malaysia 1911–1970.	39
Table 2.24.	Population by community distribution: Peninsular Malaysia, 1911–1985 (in Thousands).	39
Table 2.25.	Number and percentage distribution of population by major communities: Sabah, Sarawak, 1960–1970.	40
Table 2.26.	Median age and sex ratio per 100 females, Malaysia, 1911–1980.	41
Table 2.27.	Population/percent distribution by age and dependency ratios: Malaysia, 1911–1985.	42
Table 2.28.	Peninsular Malaysia: Median age at first marriage by ethnic groups, 1947, 1957, 1970 and 1974.	48
Table 2.29.	Indicators of trend in marriage timing and non-marriage, among females, by ethnic group in Peninsular Malaysia, 1947–1974.	49
Table 3.1.	Gross national and domestic product of Malaysia at 1970 constant prices ($ million, ringgit).	50
Table 3.2.	Gross National product (GNP) and per capita income at current prices, Malaysia.	51
Table 3.3.	Peninsular Malaysia: Incidence of poverty by sector and urban-rural strata, 1970, 1975 and 1980.	52
Table 3.4.	Comparative education indicators of selected countries.	53
Table 3.5.	Total education expenditure in Malaysia in relation to other macro-economic data.	53
Table 3.6.	Cross country comparisons of selected health indicators.	55
Table 3.7.	Doctor, nurse and midwife ratios per 1,000 population in Malaysia.	56
Table 3.8.	General health indices for Peninsular Malaysia, 1960–1979.	57

	LIST OF TABLES	PAGE
Table 3.9.	Major causes of admissions and deaths in government hospitals in Peninsular Malaysia by rank order and percentage, 1970, 1977 and 1980.	58
Table 3.10.	Summary of population, labour force and employment, 1970-1985.	60
Table 3.11.	Employment estimates by sector, Malaysia, 1970-1985.	61
Table 5.1.	Implementation schedules of the National Programme.	80
Table 5.2	Funding direct to the National Family Planning Board (NFPB) component of the National Programme by the Malaysian Government (Malaysia $).	88
Table 5.3.	Funding direct to the Federation of Family Planning Associations (FFPAM) component of the National Programme (Malaysia $).	89
Table 5.4.	The number of staff allocated and man-years utilised by year in the National Family Planning Board component.	95
Table 5.5.	Standard staffing pattern by clinic type in the NFPB component.	96
Table 5.6.	Number of staff allocated and man-years utilised in FFPAM component.	97
Table 5.7.	Standard staffing pattern by clinic type in FFPAM component.	97
Table 5.8.	Volunteer Input in FFPAM component.	98
Table 5.9.	Number of health facilities and estimated number of health personnel in the integrated areas.	99
Table 5.10.	Standard staffing pattern of medical and para-medical personnel at state, district and rural health service structure of the Ministry of Health.	100
Table 5.11.	Distribution of contraceptive by the Board to the various agencies, Year: 1974-1981.	102
Table 6.1.	Number of Pap Smears taken by the National Family Planning Board, the Ministry of Health and the Federation of Family Planning Associations.	104
Table 6.2.	Proportion not breastfeeding and mean number of months of breastfeeding by Ethnic Group.	106
Table 6.3.	Acceptor, birth target and achievement by the planned period (Peninsular Malaysia).	107
Table 6.4.	Programme's coverage in terms of percent eligible women (Excludes Non-Programme Users).	107
Table 6.5.	Percent of eligible women covered in each age-group by the National Programme in Peninsular Malaysia.	108
Table 6.6.	Percent of very high risk births (VHRB) in Peninsular Malaysia.	109
Table 6.7.	Percent of women reporting lifetime induced abortions by residence and community group: 1974.	110

LIST OF FIGURES

	PAGE
Table 6.8.	Percent of women reporting lifetime induced abortions by community groups: 1967, 1977 and 1979. 111
Table 6.9.	Induced abortion ratios per 100 deliveries by year. 111
Table 6.10.	Summary of staff/persons trained in population/Family Planning in NFPB, FFPA, MOH and other implementing agencies from 1967-1981. 113
Table 6.11.	Trend of information/education/communication activities in the National Programme (Year 1967-1981). 115
Table 6.12.	Programme Areas for National Development Support Communication System. 118
Table 6.13.	Population Project - Implementation of Construction Programme - Peninsular Malaysia (Mac. 1982). 133
Table 7.1.	Percent distribution of family planning programme acceptors by age and by year of acceptance. 136
Table 7.2.	Percentage distribution of acceptors by number of living children and by year of acceptance. 137
Table 7.3.	Open interval of the acceptors by year. 138
Table 7.4.	Live birth rates per 1,000 acceptors to 1967, 1968, 1969 acceptors in Peninsular Malaysian Family Planning Programme. 138
Table 7.5.	Percentage distribution of acceptors by desire for another child and year. 139
Table 7.6.	Median age of acceptors by ever want another child and year. 139
Table 7.7.	Median number of living children by ever want another child and year. 140
Table 7.8.	Acceptance trend by duration of marriage (percent). 140
Table 8.1.	Number of wives, average number of pregnancies, live births and living children by age of wife. 141
Table 8.2.	Percent distribution of wives 35-44 by number of living children. 141
Table 8.3.	Percent distribution of wives 15-44 by age at first marriage. 142
Table 9.1.	Crude birth rates, Peninsular Malaysia 1957-1979. 149
Table 9.2.	Contributions (%) from changes in age-sex structure, marital structure and marital fertility to the observed changes in the crude birth rates for the different periods. 150
Table 9.3.	Effects of changes in age-sex structure, marital structure and marital fertility on the observed crude birth rate changes, 1970-1977. 151
Table 9.4.	Age specific and total fertility rates per 1,000 women in Peninsular Malaysia for selected years. 152
Table 9.5.	Trends of knowledge, attitude and practice of Family Planning according to Surveys of 1966/1967, 1970, 1974/1975, 1976, 1977, 1979. 153

		PAGE
Table 9.6.	Live births and rates to 1967, 1968 and 1969 acceptors in Malaysian Family Planning Programme.	154
Table 9.7.	1967, 1968 and 1969 fertility rates by age at acceptance for acceptors in 1967, 1968 and 1969.	156
Table 9.8.	Estimate of births prevented (from 1969 to 1974), among 68,181 acceptors in 1968 according to different standardization bases.	157
Table 9.9.	Births prevented in post acceptance years, based on 1968 sample difference by year after acceptance.	158
Table 9.10.	Summary of fertility effects of the Family Planning Programme, relative to total fertility to the impact of non-programme influences.	159

LIST OF FIGURES

PAGE

Figure 1 :	Population and growth rates of Malaysia, Peninsular Malaysia, Sabah and Sarawak	8
Figure 2 :	The demographic transition in Peninsular Malaysia (1947–1978) (CBR, GFR and CDR trends)	12
Figure 3 :	Trends in crude birth and death rates (Per 1,000 Population) 1947–1978	16
Figure 4 :	Crude birth rate and death rate for Peninsular Malaysia	20
Figure 5 :	Age/sex distribution total population - Malaya (Excluding Singapore). 1931 ('000)	43
Figure 6 :	Total Population - Malaya (Excluding Singapore) 1947 ('000)	44
Figure 7 :	Total population, Malaya - (Excluding Singapore) 1957 ('000)	45
Figure 8 :	Age/Sex distribution, Total Population - Peninsular Malaysia, 1970 ('000)	46
Figure 9 :	Age/Sex population distribution – Total population, Peninsular Malaysia 1980 (in '000)	47
Figure 10:	Macro Concept of Population	64
Figure 11:	Concept of Family Development	66
Figure 12:	The Poverty Cycle	67
Figure 13:	Organizational Structure of the National Family Planning Board (N.F.P.B.)	75
Figure 14:	The National Family Planning Service Programme Coverage	103
Figure 15:	Birth Rates to Acceptors in 1967, 1968 and 1969 for each year of Acceptance	143
Figure 16:	1967 Acceptor's Age Specific Birth Rate in 1967, 1968 and 1969 Compared to All West Malaysian Women's ASFR and MASFR	143