

REFORM, LEGITIMACY

AND

DILEMMAS

China's Politics and Society

Editors

Wang Gungwu

Zheng Yongnian

SINGAPORE UNIVERSITY PRESS
World Scientific

Contents

Editors and Contributors	vii
Introduction: Reform, Legitimacy, and Dilemmas Wang Gungwu & Zheng Yongnian	1
Part One: Party, State and Society
Chapter 1. The Politics of Power Succession ZhengYongnian	23
Chapter 2. The Chinese Communist Party in the Countryside IgnatiusWobowo	51
Chapter 3. State Corporatism and Civil Society Edward X. Gu	71
Chapter 4- The Religio-Political Significance of Falun Gong and Jiang Zemin's Legacy of Social Stability William T. Liu	103
Chapter 5. The Rule by Law vs the Rule of Law ZhengYongnian	135

Part Two: Social Reform and Challenges

Chapter 6. Labor Law for Foreign Investment Enterprises in China	167
Lo Vai Io
Chapter 7. The Political Economy of Public Housing Reform	195
Edward X. Gu
Chapter 8. Conflicts between Societal Desire and Individual Responsibility: Financing Issues in China's Urban Health Insurance Reform	231
Wei Yu
Chapter 9. China's Growing Concerns over Its Environmental Problems	251
Tong Yanqi

Part Three: Domestic Responses to External Relations

Chapter 10. The Politics of Human Rights: Stability First, Development Second, and Everything Else Can Wait	279
Lance L. P. Gore
Chapter 11. China's Dialogue with the West on Human Rights: Is There Any Common Ground?	305
LO Vai lo
Chapter 12. Nationalism and Its Dilemma: Chinese Responses to Embassy Bombing	321
John Wong & Zheng Yongnian
Chapter 13. China's Strategic Intentions and Demands: What is New?	345
Fei'Ling Wang
Index	367