

The GLOBALISATION of POVERTY

Impacts of IMF and World Bank Reforms

Michel Chossudovsky

Third World Network

CONTENTS

Introduction	15
The internationalisation of macro-economic reform	16
The cheap-labour economy	16
Debt and macro-economic reform in the developed countries	17
Global monopolies	18
Financial instability	19
Collecting debt at a world level	20
The conversion of private debts	21
Fiscal crisis of the state	22
Under the political trusteeship of finance capital	23
The illusory "independence" of the Central Bank	23
Crisis of the state	24
The global economic crisis	25

PART I: GLOBAL POVERTY AND MACRO-ECONOMIC REFORM

Chapter 1. The Globalisation of Poverty	33
Global geopolitics	33
Social polarisation and the concentration of wealth	34
The role of global institutions	35
The IMF menu	35
Economic genocide	37
Destroying the national economy	37
The dollarisation of prices	38
The "Thirdworldisation" of the former Eastern bloc	41
Economic ideology distorts the causes of global poverty	42
Manipulating the figures on global poverty	43
Chapter 2. Policing Countries Through Loan "Conditionality"	45
The global debt	45
A Marshall Plan for the rich countries	45

Policy-based lending	51
Enlarging the debt	52
The IMF shadow programme	53
The Policy Framework Paper	54
The IFIs' lending facilities	55
Phase one: "Economic stabilisation"	55
Destroying a nation's currency	56
The social consequences of devaluation	56
The "dollarisation" of domestic prices	57
The deindexation of wages	57
Analysing the impact of devaluation	58
Taking control of the Central Bank	58
Destabilising a nation's public finances	59
The budget deficit: a moving target	60
Engineering the collapse of state investment	60
Price liberalisation	61
The pricing of petroleum products and public utilities	61
Phase two: "Structural reform"	62
Trade liberalisation	62
Divestiture and privatisation of state enterprises	63
Tax reform	64
Land tenure and the privatisation of agricultural land	64
Deregulation of the banking system	64
Liberalising capital movements	65
Recycling dirty money towards debt servicing	66
"Poverty alleviation" and the "social safety net"	66
"Good governance": Promoting bogus parliamentary institutions	67
The consequences of structural adjustment	68
The IMF tacitly acknowledges policy failure	69
The counterfactual argument	69
The social impact of macro-economic reform	70
The restructuring of the health sector	71
The resurgence of communicable diseases	72

Chapter 3. The Global Cheap-Labour Economy 75

Introduction	75
Macro-economic reform supports the relocation of industry	76

Industrial export promotion	77
Global adjustment	78
“Decomposition” of national economies	78
World unemployment	79
Declining wages	80
Plant closures and industrial delocation in the developed countries	81
The worldwide compression of consumer spending	82
Relocation within trading blocs	82
The dynamic development of luxury consumption	84
The rentier economy	85
The globalisation of manufacturing	86
Import-led growth in the rich countries	86
The appropriation of surplus by non-producers	87
An example: the garment industry	87
Wages and labour costs in the developed countries	89
Mobile and immobile sectors	96
The immobility of labour	96
The sectors of non-material production	96
The impact of the scientific revolution	97
The delocation of the services economy	98

PART II: SUB-SAHARAN AFRICA

Chapter 4. Somalia: The Real Causes of Famine	101
The IMF intervention in the early 1980s	101
Towards the destruction of food agriculture	102
Collapse of the livestock economy	102
Destroying the state	103
Famine formation in sub-Saharan Africa: the lessons of Somalia	105
Concluding remarks	107
Chapter 5. Economic Genocide in Rwanda	111
The legacy of colonialism	112
The economy since independence	114
The fragility of the state	115
The IMF-World Bank intervention	115
Economic genocide	120

PART III: SOUTH AND SOUTH-EAST ASIA

Chapter 6. India: The IMF's "Indirect Rule"	125
Introduction	125
Crushing the rural and urban poor	128
"Eliminating the poor" through starvation deaths	129
The IMF supports caste exploitation	130
Poverty supports exports to the rich countries	131
Towards political collapse	131
The IMF's indirect rule	132
Chapter 7. Bangladesh: Under the Tutelage of the "Aid" Consortium	137
The 1975 military coup	137
The establishment of a parallel government	138
Establishing a bogus democracy	138
Supervising the allocation of state funds	139
Undermining the rural economy	140
Dumping US grain surpluses	141
Undermining food self-sufficiency	141
The fate of local industry	142
The recycling of aid money	143
"The social dimensions of adjustment"	143
Chapter 8. The Post-War Economic Destruction of Vietnam	147
Rewriting the history of the war	148
The new Vietnam War	149
Reimbursing the "bad debts" of the Saigon regime	150
Destroying the national economy	151
Excluding domestic producers from their own market	153
Thwarting the channels of internal trade	154
The disintegration of the state's public finances	155
Collapse of state capital formation	156
Reintegrating the Japanese empire	157
The outbreak of famine	158
Child malnutrition	160
Into the net of international agribusiness	161

Vietnam as a major exporter of rice	162
The concentration of land	163
The destruction of education	165
Collapse of the health system	167
The resurgence of infectious diseases	168

PART IV: LATIN AMERICA

Chapter 9. Debt and “Democracy” in Brazil	175
Brazil’s debt saga: Act I: Plan Collor	177
Act II: Conforming to the “Washington Consensus”	178
Act III: In the aftermath of Collor’s impeachment	180
Act IV: A Marxist sociologist as finance minister	181
Act V: Rescheduling the commercial debt	182
Act VI, Epilogue: The management of poverty at minimal cost to the creditors	185
Consolidating a parallel government	188
Chapter 10. IMF Shock Treatment in Peru	191
Historical background	192
The APRA’s non-orthodox economic policy, 1985-87	196
The APRA’s debt-negotiating strategy	197
The economic programme enters a deadlock	197
De facto “shock treatment”, 1988-90	199
Failure of the APRA’s non-orthodox economic package	199
The restoration of IMF rule	200
The August 1990 IMF-Fujishock	201
The IMF-World Bank tutelage	202
The granting of fictitious money	204
The role of the military	204
The collapse of the State	205
The plight of the rural economy	206
The concentration of land	207
The illegal narco-economy	208
The anti-drug agreement with Washington	209
US military and security objectives	210

Chapter 11. Debt and the Illegal Drug Economy:
The Case of Bolivia	215
Bolivia's New Economic Policy	215
Economic and social impact	216
Programmed economic stagnation	217
The impact on the rural economy	218
The laundering of dirty money	219
"Eradication" of coca production	219
The narco-state	220

PART V: THE FORMER SOVIET UNION AND THE BALKANS

Chapter 12. The Thirdworldisation of the Russian Federation	225
Macro-economic reform in the Russian Federation
Phase I: the January 1992 shock treatment	225
The legacy of perestroika	228
Developing a bazaar bourgeoisie	228
Distorting social relations	229
Pillage of the Russian economy	229
Undermining Russian capitalism	230
Acquiring state property "at a good price"	231
Weakening Russia's high-tech economy	232
Taking over Russia's banking system	233
Undermining the rouble zone	233
Phase II: the IMF reforms enter an impasse	233
Abolishing the parliament in the name of "governance"	235
"Western aid" to Boris Yeltsin	238
Into the strait-jacket of debt-servicing	239
The collapse of civil society	240

Chapter 13. Dismantling former Yugoslavia, Recolonising Bosnia-Herzegovina	243
"Peace-making" and macro-economic policy	243
Macro-economic reform supports strategic interests	244
The agreement with the IMF	246
The 1989 enterprise reforms	247
Overhauling the legal framework	248

The bankruptcy programme	249
“Shedding surplus workers”	250
Political disintegration	252
Post-war reconstruction	252
The social impact of the reforms	255
Rebuilding Bosnia-Herzegovina	255
Multinationals have an eye on Bosnia’s oil fields	258
Concluding remarks	258

SELECTED BIBLIOGRAPHY	265
------------------------------	-----

INDEX	273
--------------	-----