

Chomsky's

---

Universal

---

Grammar

---

AN INTRODUCTION

---

second edition

V.J. Cook and Mark Newson

Contents

Preface to the Second Edition	viii
1 The Nature of Universal Grammar	1
Structure-dependency	3
The Head Parameter	13
The Projection Principle	16
General Ideas of Language	21
Types of Universals	26
The Language Faculty	30
Principles and Rules	33
2 Concepts of Principles and Parameters Theory	40
The Framework of Principles and Parameters Theory	40
Relating Sound and Meaning	42
Movement	45
Modules of the Theory	48
Government	50
The Pro-drop (Null Subject) Parameter	55
Binding Theory	61
Core and Periphery	70
3 General Concepts of Language Acquisition	75
General Ideas of Language Acquisition	76
States of the language faculty	78
The Language Acquisition Device	79
The poverty-of-the-stimulus argument	81
The principles and parameters theory and language acquisition	85
First Language Acquisition	88
The evidence available to the L1 learner	89
Some insufficient ways of acquiring a first language	93

vi Contents

	The physical basis for Universal Grammar	105
	Acquisition of principles and parameter setting in first language acquisition	108
	Language input	115
	Markedness and language development	118
	Second Language Acquisition and Universal Grammar	124
	The poverty-of-the-stimulus argument and Second Language Acquisition	126
	Acquisition of parameter settings in Second Language Acquisition	130
4	The X-bar Theory of Phrase Structure	133
	X-bar Theory of Phrase Structure	133
	The Structure of Lexical Phrases	136
	The Structure of Functional Phrases	148
	Levels of Structural Representation and Movement	152
5	<math>\theta</math>-Theory and Functional Categories	159
	Aspects of the Lexical Entry	159
	The Projection Principle and $\theta$ -Theory	163
	Grammatical Functions	173
	Further Types of Functional Phrase	181
6	Movement and Case Theory	189
	NP-movement	191
	Wh-movement	199
	Subject-movement and Verb-movement	206
	Word Order Variation	215
	Case Theory	222
	The Case Filter	226
	Parameters of Case Theory	231
7	Government and Other Developments	234
	C-command and Government	234
	Government and Case Theory	242
	Control Structures	245
	Binding Theory	250
	Binding Theory and Empty Categories	251
	The Boundedness of Movement and Proper Government	256
	Relativized Minimality	268
8	Topics in Language Acquisition	273
	The Acquisition of Functional Phrases	274
	Alternative Explanations of Children's Null-Subject Sentences	284

Access to Universal Grammar in Second Language Acquisition	291
Maturation and Universal Grammar	297
Binding Parameters and Acquisition of Binding Theory	303
9 A Sketch of the Minimalist Programme	311
Why Minimalism?	312
A Brief Sketch of the Minimalist Framework	318
How Minimal Can the Minimalist Programme Get?	326
Getting Rid of D- and S-structure	326
Getting Rid of Government	333
Getting Rid of X-bar	338
Conclusion	344
Principles, Parameters and Operations:
Quick Reference List	345
References	351
Index	363