

A black and white photograph of a city at night, likely Jubail or Yanbu in Saudi Arabia. The image shows a dense urban area with numerous lights from buildings and street lamps, creating a bright, glowing effect against the dark sky. The foreground shows some lower-rise buildings and a road with streetlights. The overall scene is a panoramic view of a modern city in a desert environment.

CITIES FROM THE ARABIAN DESERT

The Building of Jubail and Yanbu in Saudi Arabia

Andrea H. Pampanini

Contents

Illustrations	ix
Acknowledgments	xi
The Vision	xiii
Chapter 1: Beginnings	1
Chapter 2: Breaking the Iron Ring	9
Chapter 3: In the Souk	19
Chapter 4: The Royal Commission: Matrix Manager	29
Chapter 5: "Make It Happen"	43
Chapter 6: The Aramco Connection	53
Chapter 7: SABIC: Engine of Development	61
Chapter 8: Best-Laid Plans	69
Chapter 9: A Tale of Two Cities	79
Chapter 10: No White Elephants	89
Chapter 11: Of Swords and Plowshares	99
Chapter 12: The Future	109
Appendix A: Location and Land-Use Maps	121

Appendix B: Facts and Figures	125
Appendix C: Industrial Investments	161
Appendix D: Major Milestones	179
Selected Bibliography	189
Index	199

Photographic essays follow pages 42 and 87.