

JOHN CURTIN

a life

David Day

Award-winning author of Claiming a Continent

Contents

Preface	ix
Abbreviations	xiii
1 – ‘a very efficient officer’	1
2 – ‘to curse at the child’s sob in the darkness’	17
3 – ‘whilst those penetrating eyes were upon us’	27
4 – ‘an openness of mind towards all truth’	34
5 – ‘a round-faced, solemn small boy’	45
6 – ‘the greatest cause in the world’	57
7 – ‘bright lights on an otherwise darkened highway’	67
8 – ‘great changes were coming’	78
9 – ‘everyone was treated as a brother’	87
10 – ‘the day draws near, comrades, be ready’	99
11 – ‘a shining light in the gloomy forest’	109
12 – ‘argument, argument, argument’	118
13 – ‘Tory twaddle and Labor lies’	129
14 – ‘the modern temptress in the garden’	142
15 – ‘big enough to sweep the earth’	158
16 – ‘the soldier of the common good’	174
17 – ‘the army of the Brave’	186
18 – ‘a Labor Movement staggering to the grave’	197
19 – ‘the stony road of suffering’	212
20 – ‘Onward to Victory!’	223

21 – ‘our day will come again’	237
22 – ‘those whom death has gripped’	253
23 – ‘the climax is approaching’	267
24 – ‘mere abuse and scurrilous calumny’	279
25 – ‘a party of pals’	292
26 – ‘morose and lonely’	306
27 – ‘standard bearers in a holy war’	322
28 – ‘my plurry oath what a surprise’	338
29 – ‘our first duty is to Australia’	356
30 – ‘the twilight through which we have to pass’	371
31 – ‘a new stage of urgency’	387
32 – ‘we are ready to govern’	403
33 – ‘now let me go to work’	416
34 – ‘our darkest hour’	430
35 – ‘the blood and grief of war’	452
36 – ‘morally and spiritually rearmed’	471
37 – ‘the pride and lion of Labor’	493
38 – ‘a second Britannia in the Antipodes’	515
39 – ‘I was not trained to be a war lord’	535
40 – ‘the lonely occasions which so often have been mine’	559
Epilogue – ‘a lover of all mankind’	577
Select Bibliography	586
Index	597