PREFACE

Many books have already been written about CANCER. This is another one. In this book we have written about the experiences of a few “gravely ill” people who came to us for advice.

If you, your loved ones or friends do happen to have cancer, perhaps reading yet another book will not be a burden. To fight and win a war, you need to know as much as possible about the enemy. We intend to keep this book brief and as straightforward as possible. We avoid all technical and medical jargon. To help you, we have divided the book into two parts. Part 1 tells you in a straightforward way what you need to do. In Part 2, we spend some time explaining why you need to do what we advise you to do.

Do not despair or give up hope if you happen to be stricken with this dreadful disease. It can be defeated, treated and managed. At least, many among those who have come to us for help are currently experiencing a meaningful life.

What is required of you in this war against cancer is to have a positive fighting spirit. You should be prepared to change some aspects of the lifestyle you have previously been accustomed to. We believe, with proper medical help and understanding of the enemy within you, you will get much relief and even win your war!

We wish to record our sincere thanks to Ms. Punitha Dorairajah for typing the manuscript and Ms. Josephine Choo for editing it.
