

CONSUMER BEHAVIOUR IN ASIA

HELLMUT SCHÜTTE WITH
DEANNA CIARLANTE

MACMILLAN
Business

Consumer Behaviour in Asia

Hellmut Schütte with
Deanna Ciarlante

PUSTAKA PERDANA

1001487

Contents

List of Figures	viii
List of Tables	ix
List of Abbreviations and Acronyms	x
Acknowledgements	xi
1 An Alternative Consumer Behaviour Theory for Asia	1
Introduction and structure of the book	1
Consumer behaviour in Asia: premises	3
Cross-cultural perspectives in consumer behaviour theory	3
Dimensions of cultural values	7
‘Asian’ culture and values and ‘Asian’ consumer behaviour	14
2 Distinguishing Features of Asian Culture	17
Religious traditions and philosophies	17
Confucianism	17
Buddhism	19
Islam in Asia	20
Folk religions in Asia	22
Belief in fate	23
Concept of self, others and the collective group	25
Concept of self and others	25
Interpersonal relationships	30
Complementarity of relations	37
Group conformity	40
Roles and corresponding status	43
The concept of face	44
Status propriety and consumption	46
Family orientation	47
Family dynamics	48
Role of the extended family	50
Role of the family in decision-making	51
Growing influence of women	52
3 The Mind-set of the Individual Consumer	58
Thinking, learning and communicating	58
Problem-solving	58
Learning and memory	61
Communication styles	62

Perceptions	63
Aesthetic sensibility and symbolic associations	63
Product names	65
Country of origin	67
Company image	68
Attitudes	71
Brand loyalty	71
Risk aversion and diffusion of innovation	74
Concern for safety/hygiene	79
Attitude towards authority	81
Attitude towards products	83
4 Driving Forces in Asian Consumer Behaviour	90
Motivation and needs	90
Maslow's hierarchy of needs	90
Trio of needs	94
The cultural meaning of consumer goods	97
Private-use consumption versus public-use consumption	99
Conspicuous consumption in action	101
Faddism	106
Purchase intention and process	109
Behavioural intention model	109
Decision-making	111
Post-purchase behaviour	113
Expressing dissatisfaction	113
Importance of after-sales service	114
5 An Example of Asian Consumer Behaviour: The Leisure Industry	118
Concepts of leisure	118
The Western concept	118
The Asian concept	120
Asian motivations for leisure	120
Family/group engagement	121
Learning	121
Status propriety/elevation	122
Culture-driven constraints	123
Family/group responsibilities	123
Religion	124
State/government	124
Implications for future leisure behaviour of Asians	125
6 Marketing Implications	129
Segmentation	129
Geographical segmentation	129

Demographic segmentation	132
Psychographic segmentation	140
Positioning	142
Adjustment and appropriateness	142
Branding	145
Differentiation	148
Marketing research in Asia	149
7 The Marketing Mix	156
Product	156
Product standardisation and adaptation	156
Product development for Asia	160
Packaging	162
Pricing	164
Price perceptions	164
Skimming versus penetration	167
Regional pricing	168
Advertising	170
Content characteristics	170
Advertising style	172
Asian and Western values	174
Distribution	177
Channels and stages of development	177
Retailing	179
Direct marketing	184
Sales and service	186
The role of the salesperson	186
Bargaining	188
The service dimension	189
8 Modernisation versus Westernisation of Asian Consumer Behaviour	194
Globalisation and consumer behaviour	194
Modernisation versus Westernisation	196
9 Appendix: Case Studies	200
Case Study One: Cartier Japan	200
Case Study Two: Goal! Japan scores in soccer	219
Case Study Three: Club Med Japan	244
References	263
Name Index	270
Subject Index	273