Cuepacs tells people to put aside political differences

KUALA LUMPUR, Wed. - Cuepacs today urged Malaysians to put aside their political differences now that the general election is over, and concentrate on ensuring the country's continued development and stability as it moves into the new millennium.

Secretary-general Abd Rahman Manan said Malaysians, including those from the public sector, had given the Barisan Nasional a mandate to bring further growth to the country.

(Cuepacs is the umbrella organisation for unions in the civil service).

"Cuepacs congratulates the BN and Prime Minister Datuk Seri Dr Mahathir Mohamad. We would also like to thank the PM for promising to look into the proposals and appeals made by Cuepacs in its (Cuepacs) manifesto for the new millennium."

Abd Rahman said the public sector would continue to provide its best service.

"Civil servants in Kelantan and Terengganu too should give their best service and adhere to the work procedure and needs of their respective State Governments."
