Proud to be Malaysian

Jasbindar Kaur

I WAS born in 1953. Forty-two years after my country won its independence, I just want to write and say how happy I am to be a Malaysian.

My father was born in Papan, a small town in Perak, and my mother was born in Tapah, also in Perak.

If every country had a Prime Minister like the one I have, there would be peace in the world.

I know I am very lucky to have a Prime Minister like Datuk Seri Dr Mahathir Mohamad. He is very kind, understanding, gentle and brave. He is also very lucky to have a wife like Datuk Seri Dr Siti Hasmah.

Wherever I go, I am proud to say I am Malaysian. I want to wish the country a Happy Merdeka Day and I pray that God will protect my Prime Minister's health.

I love my country. Merdeka!
