Sho joins long list of luminaries for award

LONG-SERVING Sho Ha Wang, executive director of the Malaysian Volleyball Association, is the latest nomination for Timesport-Sport Toto's 1999 Man of the Year award.

An anonymous fax received by Timesport yesterday listed Sho's credentials as, among other things, national volleyball coach from 1981 to 1985, served as MAVA executive secretary from 1985, secretary general of the South-East Asian Volleyball Federation, initiated the Malaysia Volleyball League in 1993 and was in the organising committee of the 1999 World Grand Prix women's tournament at Genting Highlands.

Ahmad Laili Tajul Arus of Kuala Lumpur has nominated Datuk G.S Gill for his 54 years of involvement in sports goods.

Gill was responsible for introducing well-known German brand adidas to Malaysia in the 60s.

Sho and Gill join a list of luminaries for this year's award, among them Prime Minister Datuk Seri Dr Mahathir Mohamad.

So who will be the Man of the Year? The choice is yours.
