Wiser for students to focus on their studies

Danny Tan

IN response to the report "Dr M: Don't jeopardise your future" (NST April 19), I totally agree with Prime Minister Datuk Seri Dr Mahathir Mohamad.

Being a student, I realise that my job is to study for the sake of my future.

Unless one is uncertain about the future, one would not lower one's dignity nor tarnish one's image.

It is important for students to have a vision so that they know what they want to achieve in life.

I personally don't think expressing ourselves through street violence is very effective.

In fact, I think it is an uncivilised act. Why not write to the newspapers, e-mail Dr Mahathir, or hold a media conference to express their views and how they can contribute positively to our country.

What is most important to Malaysia right now is not whether Datuk Seri Anwar Ibrahim is jailed or whether Tan Sri Rahim Noor is at fault. What is important now is to focus on economic recovery, so that Vision 2020 is on schedule.

We, as students, must think wisely about the future and what is important.

We must think about it and make it happen.
