Consider retirees, too

N.P. Nair

I AGREE that former servicemen should be employed whenever possible as advised by Prime Minister Datuk Seri Dr Mahathir Mohamad.

I feel that retired people who are physically fit should also be considered for suitable employment where workload is not all that heavy like becoming receptionists, information staff and ticket inspectors.

It is cheaper for the employers. Work efficiency would be better compared to beginners and the number of foreign workers can be minimised. And it will be a blessing in disguise to the retirees who are not all that well off financially for whatever reason.
