Stay united, says Lam Thye

KUALA LUMPUR, Sun. - Malaysians should continue to promote racial and religious harmony in the new millennium, social activist Datuk Lee Lam Thye said.

"It is essential for the people to be united and remain strong in the face of any adversity that could affect our independence and well-being as we face the new millennium," said Lee, a member of the National Unity Advisory Panel.

Lee said in a statement it was appropriate for Prime Minister Datuk Seri Dr Mahathir Mohamad to call on Malaysians to be united and learn from the past to face challenges in the future.
