Change or risk being left behind

N. Gangadharan

WHEN Prime Minister Datuk Seri Dr Mahathir Mohamad laid bare the Government's agenda on teaching Mathematics and Science in English from next year at the Bukit Jalil Stadium on Oct 9, it was obvious that he was not playing to the gallery. He tackled the issue in earnest laying to rest the fears of the doubting Thomases.

An ingrained habit with such people is that while they tend to stick to their guns, they let slip the chance of progress.

The question of the hour is whether we want to stand idle and delude ourselves into believing that, come what may, we will continue to enjoy
