Feeling at home in Malaysia

Saiyed Masood Alam Zaidi

AN expatriate who has spent the last 22 years of my working life in Malaysia, I have come to identify myself as a Malaysian.

It seems like yesterday when I came to Malaysia in 1980 with my wife but it did not take very long for us to feel completely at home because of the friendly and loving attitude of our friends and some relations here.

Since then we have watched as well as enjoyed the progress Malaysia has made.

Datuk Seri Dr Mahathir Mohamad has been a symbol of political stability and economic prosperity for over two decades and Malaysians have come to identify the Prime Minister as an indispensable leader.

He ushered in a new era by shifting to new paradigms, which ensured that Malaysia stood tall among the developed countries and also with the other fast-developing economies.
