Muhyiddin sworn in as new PM of Malaysia

KUALA LUMPUR — Muhyiddin Yassin, a former deputy prime minister, took the oath of office on Sunday to become Malaysia's new prime minister.

Muhyiddin was appointed following the abrupt resignation of Mahathir Mohamad, 94, who had been in office since general elections in 2018.

Before Malaysia's King Sultan Abdullah Sultan Ahmad Shah at the national palace, Muhyiddin, wearing traditional Malay clothes, pledged to serve the country and the people well.

Muhyiddin, 72, had served as deputy prime minister under former prime minister Najib Razak from 2009 to 2015.

He later cofounded Parti Pribumi Bersatu Malaysia, or PPBM, with Mahathir and served as its president, joining the Pakatan Harapan coalition to win the general election in 2018. He served as home minister in Mahathir's cabinet.

On the same day of Mahathir's abrupt resignation on Feb 24, Muhyiddin announced as party president that PPBM was pulling out of the PH coalition, costing its majority in the lower house of parliament.

Muhyiddin later won support from major opposition parties, including the Barisan Nasional led by the United Malays National Organization, known as the UMNO, and became a leading candidate for prime minister.

In a statement on Saturday, the national palace said that Sultan Abdullah believed Muhyiddin could command a majority in the lower house of parliament, and hence agreed to appoint him as prime minister in accordance with the constitution.

However, Mahathir, who again became PH's candidate for prime minister earlier on Saturday, unveiled a list of about 115 members of parliament whom he said support him to be prime minister, giving him a majority in the 222-seat lower house.

At a news conference on Sunday, Mahathir called for an early parliamentary sitting so MPs could see whether Muhyiddin commanded the majority.

According to Malaysia's constitution, the king can appoint a prime minister who in his judgment is likely to command the confidence of the majority of the members of the house.

The constitution also stipulates that if the prime minister ceases to command the majority, the prime minister has to tender the resignation of the cabinet unless at his request the king dissolves parliament.

KRISIS COVID-19 MEMBUKTIKAN NEGARA KECIL MEMPUNYAI NILAI DAN KEUPAYAAN TANGANI CABARAN

Krisis Covid-19 benar-benar menguji banyak negara dan Malaysia tidak terkecuali. Saya percaya, semasa tempoh sukar ini, Malaysia bersama negara-negara kecil perlu bersatu dalam mendepani landskap baharu dunia ini. Telah dibuktikan, tanpa rasa bangga dan ego serta dengan merendah diri, negara kecil berupaya mengurus krisis ini dengan baik. Ia sekaligus membuktikan negara kecil mempunyai nilai dan keupayaan serta tidak perlu bergantung kepada agenda kuasa besar.

Malah, selepas krisis ini reda, Malaysia dan negara-negara kecil perlu membuat pilihan. Sama ada mahu terus mengukuhkan kerjasama dan perpaduan atau berusaha sendirian. Atau lebih teruk, saling berseteru dan berpecah belah. Malaysia, pasti akan memilih jalan yang mampu menjamin masa depan yang boleh dibanggakan oleh anak, cucu dan cicit kita. Malaysia deserves better!

COVID-19 IS OUR PRIORITY - HISHAMMUDDIN

PUTRAJAYA, March 11 -- The top priority of the Foreign Ministry now is on COVID-19 related issues as it has affected the economy and the well-being of Malaysians, particularly those remaining in countries seriously affected by the outbreak, said Datuk Seri Hishammuddin Tun Hussein.

The newly-minted Foreign Minister said Wisma Putra needs to look up on this virus issue seriously as it had also affected Malaysians' frame of mind and if it was not managed properly, there could be repercussions.

"COVID-19 has affected the whole world and we have a strong relationship with countries that are also going through that situation. Why not share best practices?"

"The best way to do it is to get best practices with all the countries out there (measures to overcome the virus). Well, Wisma Putra cannot decide because this is something that will be decided by the Cabinet, but we can present to the Cabinet our findings," he told a media conference after clocking in and meeting Foreign Ministry staff at Wisma Putra today.

Hishammuddin said he would raise the COVID-19 issue with his counterparts in China, Singapore, as well as the United Arab Emirates (UAE), to find the best solutions in tackling the outbreak.

He said COVID-19 was one of the important matters discussed in the first Cabinet meeting of the Perikatan Nasional government this morning.

On his first day in Wisma Putra, Hishammuddin said he was overwhelmed by the strong support given by the ministry staff.

Hishammuddin, who has held various ministerial posts, said he also received lots of communication requests from his foreign counterparts today.

"The response from foreign countries have been extraordinary and overwhelming. Just last night I was informed of call requests from several foreign ministers, with six calls already lined up just for today.

Hishammuddin said the countries include China, Saudi Arabia, Singapore, Indonesia and Thailand and several other countries in the Southeast Asian region.

"As I said in my speech, we are in a situation of great complexity in a borderless world right now, geopolitical considerations must be taken into account for diplomatic purposes and we want to make it better in the future," he said.

China reaching out globally to fight virus

From masks and ventilators to medical personnel, Beijing pulls out all the stops

KUALA LUMPUR — As the unprecedented novel coronavirus pandemic is taking a heavy toll globally, China has provided much-needed medical supplies and treatment experience to help countries fight the crisis.

A team of medical experts dispatched by the Chinese government has arrived in Kuala Lumpur to help Malaysia fight the pandemic.

The eight-member expert team was received by China's Ambassador to Malaysia Bai Tian and officials of Malaysia's Ministry of Health upon their arrival at Kuala Lumpur International Airport on Saturday.

During the contingent's two-week stay in Malaysia, it will share its expertise in fighting COVID-19 with its Malaysian counterparts, which will help Malaysia's efforts against the pandemic, Bai said.

"This is the time when governments and the people of China and Malaysia are working together and looking after each other to overcome the difficulties."

Malaysia's Health Ministry Director-General Noor Hisham Abdullah said the Chinese expert team and Malaysian experts would share their expertise and views on COVID-19.

"We will discuss with our colleagues from China and we will see how we can cooperate, to improve our virus detection, our treatment and public health, and how we can work together with China."

escalate rapidly.

A Chinese medical team arrived in Tashkent on Friday to assist Uzbekistan's efforts to fight COVID-19.

The team also carried medical supplies donated by Jiangxi Province, including surgical masks, respirators, medical protective suits, nucleic acid testing kits, goggles and noninvasive ventilators.

The experts, specializes in various areas including traditional Chinese medicine, intensive care, hospital infection control and emergency treatment, are from several hospitals in Jiangxi and the provincial center for disease prevention and control.

"All the team members have firsthand experience in treating COVID-19 patients or controlling the epidemic," said team leader Luo Lisheng.

"We will share China's experience in fighting COVID-19 and offer training on disease prevention, diagnosis and treatment to our counterparts in Uzbekistan," Luo added.

"China will never forget the Uzbek aid when China was badly hit by the virus. I hope that the work of Chinese experts will be useful to the Uzbek side to achieve victory in fighting against COVID-19," said Jiang Yan, the Chinese ambassador to Uzbekistan, who greeted the Chinese experts at the airport.

The medical team will also provide medical supplies, training and consultation to overseas Chinese in Uzbekistan.

Late last month, China also donated protective medical supplies to Uzbekistan to help fight the COVID-19 pandemic.

The Libyan Foreign Ministry said that the country received a shipment of anti-coronavirus medical aid from the Jack Ma Foundation.

"A shipment of medical aid, including medical devices and equipment, has arrived today, to help fight COVID-19," the foreign ministry said on Saturday.

"This shipment comes as part of the initiative of the Jack Ma Foundation and under the supervision of the Ethiopian Prime Minister," the statement said.

Share without reserve

China's government, companies at home and abroad, institutions, and provinces and cities have so far donated large amounts of face masks, test kits and protective suits to 120 countries and four international organizations. And Chinese companies are working day and night to produce ventilators and protective gear to deliver urgent orders from international clients while meeting domestic demand.

Also, Chinese front-line medical experts have shared without any reserve their treatment experience with peers in more than 100 countries and regions, through multiple video conferences.

And China has sent teams of medical experts to many countries, including Iran, Iraq, Italy, Serbia, Cambodia, Pakistan, Laos and Venezuela to help contain COVID-19.
