The prime minister said on Saturday that the fracas at Ijok's nomination day was 'stupid and unnecessary'. He said that he hoped this would not be the trend.

As PM and head of the Bersian Nasional coalition, I suggest that the honourable PM look at the following photos taken of his beloved son-in-law and other BN members who childishly taunt and provoke.

I hope that the PM will check with the police and the FRU who were there trying to keep apart the two parties. However, it was obviously a game plan by the bigger boys to provoke a fight with opposition.

So dear PM, please go home to speak with your son-in-law. This is not the first time he has done it.

Like children on the school field, you will see monkey faces and taunting from MIC and Umno members. They are like the big bullies who pick a fight with the smaller boys.

What a shame. They know the mainstream newspapers and the police will not publicise this childish behaviour.

However, I think with the power of the Internet today, pictures like those above can be seen by all.
