Ummi Hafilda Ali's former business partner today threatened to go on a nationwide ceramah to expose her alleged "scandals" in the past.

Baginda Minda (right), who said he was Ummi Hafilda's business partner in a project related to the construction of the KL International Airport (KLIA), said he could not take any more of her allegations against PKR de facto chief Anwar Ibrahim.

"I can no longer bear with her allegations. She accuses Anwar of many things, of being immoral and the like," he told a press conference at the Parliament lobby today.

"She herself had scandals... in London, with me. Where have her morals gone?"

He was referring to testimony he had given almost 10 years ago, during Anwar's Sodomy I trial in the High Court in Kuala Lumpur.

"I had sex with Ummi in London," said Baginda when testifying on April 21, 2001, although she has denied this claim.

'If she's not paid, she won't move'

Today, Baginda said Ummi Hafilda has been far from honest in her so-called revelations about Anwar while campaigning during the recent Merlimau and Kerbau by-elections.

He alleged that she never did anything for free.

"Ummi said she was not paid (to speak at ceramah sessions). The deputy prime minister (Muhyiddin Yassin) said Ummi was not given money... I know Ummi very well. If she is not paid, she won't move," he said.

Ummi Hafilda, when campaigning for BN at the Merlimau and Kerbau by-elections, publicly accused Anwar of depravity.

Going back to Anwar's first sodomy trial in the late 1990s, Baginda accused Ummi Hafilda of making a RM10 million deal with former finance minister Daim Zainuddin to testify against Anwar.

Baginda claimed that the deal required her to lie in the witness stand in order to get a small part of the multi-billion ringgit KLIA construction project.

"Unfortunately, she was cheated by Tun Daim (right). Now she has no project, she has nothing, so she has to resort to selling (Anwar's alleged sodomy victim) Saiful (Bukhari Azlan) to get money," he said.

Baginda warned Ummi to stop going around attacking Anwar, or he would hang out her dirty linen before the entire nation.

"I challenge Ummi (to stop or) I will expose (her secrets), have ceramah sessions across the nation and expose what we discussed.

"If she can do it, so can I. If she wants to go deeper, I can go deeper... I can be more explosive than what she has done on stage," he warned.
