Johor PAS deputy commissioner Dr Dzulkefly Ahmad's BMW car and the living room of his house were gutted in a suspected arson attempt early this morning.

NONEDzulkefly, who resides in Taman Universiti near Skudai, was asleep on the top floor of his house when the 3:40am incident happened, according to PAS party organ Harakahdaily.

The PAS leader said that he and his wife were woke up by a loud explosion.

"We saw the engine of the BMW car burning and there was fire in the living room," Dzulkefly told Harakahdaily.

"Soon after there was another loud explosion, and I quickly moved my four other family members out of the house through the back door."

Dzulkefly said they called the fire department, which arrived minutes later and they managed to put out the fire.

The BMW car was however totally gutted, while the living room was also destroyed by the fire.

"A (Toyota) Camry which was parked next to the BMW was partially burnt, but I think it can be repaired.

"I am thankful that my family and I are safe and unhurt," he said, adding that a police report had been lodged.

Another PAS Johor deputy commissioner, Mazlan Aliman, said he suspected the arson was linked to Dzulkefly's being vocal on issues relating to Johor Corporation and fast-food chain KFC.

"We hope the police will get to the bottom of the matter," said Mazlan.
