

No point for MCA, Wee, to play sympathy card

As always, the MCA and its youth leader cum deputy education minister Wee Ka Siong are trying to play the sympathy card against Dong Jiao Zhong (DJZ), Dong Zhong and all who support the Chinese education cause and the right to mother tongue education in general.

As claimed by MCA leaders, the majority of those who attended the 325 DJZ assembly were Opposition members - what a moronic thing to say.

You are really insulting the thousands of parents and senior citizens who are not members of any political party but were present at 325.

For more than 40 years the MCA deputy education ministers did nothing to help check the rot and MCA wants to continue to con the Chinese community.

With the cards staked against MCA, the party is now trying to deflect the issue by blaming an unruly crowd, and falsely accusing the Opposition as the culprits for 325.

MCA now claims the 325 organisers and the Opposition should have prevented or stopped the jeering and booing.

Did the MCA do the same at the MCA-organised debate between its scandal-tainted porn president Chua Soi Lek and Penang Chief Minister Lim Guan Eng?

Lim and the minority Opposition audience were given the same treatment of jeers and boos. That is OK?

What is even worse is that an elderly man, who happened to be a former MCA member, was physically removed because he wanted to ask a very pertinent but highly embarrassing question?

The question was this: Why did the MCA support and help the racist Umno to amend the Education Act in the 60s to empower the Education Minister to convert vernacular Chinese and Tamil schools to national schools?"

MCA, you cannot change facts. You sold out the Chinese community outright.

Also there is some misconception in news reports that Wee was chased out of 325.

I was present at the assembly or rally, from start to finish.

"Cry Baby" Wee was jeered and booed throughout the assembly. He was not chased out.

Wee arrived, stayed to hear the speeches of non-governmental organisation leaders and left at the end of the assembly.

At no point was he chased out by the 325 organisers or so-called Opposition members.

Wee was escorted in and out of the assembly by some 20 policemen and Rela members. If Wee was really assaulted, then our really super efficient policemen, who formed a human shield to protect Wee, are to blame for failing to arrest the culprit.

And now, Home Minister Hishammuddin Hussein has the gall to call on politicians to lodge police reports if they feel threatened. And he said Wee should have alerted the police of his presence to avoid such an incident?

Is our home minister blind? Can't he see the cops in the pictures?

Wee and MCA deserve all the jeers and boos for selling out Chinese education for more than 40 years. Of course it is always wrong to get physical.

If Wee was really assaulted, then the policemen present had failed in their duty, as always.

Today, unfortunately, the police agenda is the agenda of the racist Umno.

The police force of any country should be apolitical. The Royal Malaysian Police Force is obviously not.
