Budget 2013, which was unveiled yesterday, is filled with goodies and incentives. Market commentators seem to agree that it will bring cheer to millions of households, especially low-income families.

Students and youths in particular will enjoy incentives in the form of book vouchers, a one-off cash payment and even rebates on smartphone purchases.

Budding entrepreneurs will also see more support from newly-formed funds to help encourage more entrepreneurship endeavours.

iMoney has produced this infographic to help Malaysiakini readers visualise some of the salient points in this year's budget and what it means for you.
