It is better for Muslim Pakatan supporters to vote in non-Muslim opposition candidates than support Muslim candidates from pro-establishment groups like Isma or Berjasa, said Selangor PAS commissioner Dr Abdul Rani Osman.

This is because they will only assure the ascendancy of a "cruel" party like BN.

"I will just repeat PAS president Abdul Hadi Awang's decision on this - very clear, very simple.

"If voting for a Muslim candidate will help a cruel party, it is better to vote for non-Muslims from Pakatan," Abdul Rani (right) said at a press conference in Shah Alam today.

Deputy state PAS commissioner Khalid Samad, who was also there, believes this is an attempt to split Muslim votes of Pakatan supporters.

"These candidates from Isma or Berjasa, they will not win, their function is to steal PAS votes," he said.
