

Enough, PAS need not play with words

YOURSAY 'You have already shown your true colours - zero integrity and credibility.'

No deals with Umno, insists PAS Ulama

Victor Johan: "What I said was merely to say that (outgoing Selangor MB) Abdul Khalid Ibrahim's position had become untenable because he only had the support of 26 assemblypersons. It was not an admission from me," said the PAS ulama wing information chief Khairuddin Aman Razali.

So Khairuddin, where is the list of these 26 assemblypersons and was it compiled and in what form, and when was it submitted to the Selangor sultan?

You were assuming the rest of the 13 PAS assemblypersons were supporting Khalid and Umno, right? Shame on you, and now you are caught in your own web of deceit.

Whatsup: Stop lying already. You have already shown your true colours - zero integrity and credibility. Don't play with words that you had 'never admitted' (to a PAS-Umno pact in Selangor) - if it's true then say so, don't deny it.

Otherwise why would you need to play with words if you are sincere and truthful? This is a real shame and disgrace indeed.

Victor Johan: Selangor PAS secretary Khairuddin Othman, when did you meet Umno to know of their desire in this context as you claim (that Umno had supported Khalid to remain as MB because it did not want the state assembly to be dissolved and it was not confident of winning back the state should state elections be called)?

Disgusted: The rumour must have been churned up by Umno itself to drive a wedge between PAS and its other partners in Pakatan Rakyat.

But PAS has also to be blamed as there were some covert overtures by some members to suggest such a (PAS-Umno) cooperation, especially the WhatsApp message by one of its Selangor leaders as well as some sneaky meetings conducted with Umnoputras without the knowledge of other partners in Pakatan, but was allegedly revealed by Umno to discredit PAS so that PAS may be treated with suspicion by its partners.

The behaviour of PAS towards the MB change has also caused Pakatan's other partners to consider PAS as a traitor to the coalition's agreement and see them as siding with Khalid and Umno.

We wouldn't be surprised if the Selangor water deal and the Kinrara-Damansara Expressway (Kidex) deal are signed soon with PAS exco members' consent. We also wouldn't be surprised if Khalid joins Umno after stepping down as MB.

Proarte: PAS as a party cannot be trusted anymore. It is not even a case of once bitten twice shy, the rakyat have been lied to numerous times by PAS throughout its association with Barisan Alternatif (BA) and now Pakatan Rakyat.

Remember how party leader Abdul Hadi Awang wanted to introduce 'karaj tax' for non-Muslims in Terengganu and introduce a motion of death to apostates in the BA days? The betrayal of the BA manifesto was so bad that DAP decided to pull out.

A sense of deja vu was felt when PAS did a somersault over the 'Allah' issue when the syura council had a specially convened meeting timed to perfection just before the last election to say Christians could not use the word 'Allah'.

More recently, we witness their betrayal of the Pakatan 'common manifesto' by openly collaborating with Umno to introduce hudud law.

Another act of treachery is to oppose PKR chief Wan Azizah Wan Ismail as the sole candidate for MBship and deliberately trying to create a rift in PKR by nominating party deputy Azmin Ali as well.

And if they are truly in solidarity with Pakatan, why censure the two dissenting PAS assemblypersons that backed Wan Azizah?

Louis: To make a long story short, PAS should join Umno for all we care. They are simply creating problems for Wan Azizah. They should get lost faster.

Masu Otaku: Remember when Hadi was in IJN (National Heart Institute) and PM Najib Razak paid him a visit? Make what you will of that meeting. By their very actions, PAS can no longer be trusted as a partner.

Not Convinced: It looks like PAS leaders are not informed by the changes made singlehandedly by Hadi Awang to the party's nominations for the Selangor MB.

Clearly, it has a rogue president who is defying the most recent party decision's to submit two names and to let the sultan decide.

Instead, PAS leaders are just as surprised as anyone that the party has submitted three names to the palace.

Misian1st: PAS, why have you gone from hero to zero? Some of your members say there is a deal with Umno on the Selangor MB, some members say no.

Please lah, the rakyat cannot believe you anymore. Unless of course PAS breaks into two:

PAS Umno and PAS Pakatan.

Msian1st: There is no deal with Umno, but they are not cooperative with Pakatan. What is wrong with PAS?
