Prime Minister Najib Razak said the Chinese community should not make demands of the government if it then goes on to support the opposition.

"I like to do more (for the Chinese community), maybe one day I can do more, but I also need the Chinese community to support BN, come on.

"You have to do your part, you cannot demand and then support DAP, you cannot demand (and then) support Pakatan Rakyat," he said at the MCA annual general meeting in Kuala Lumpur this morning.

"(If) you demand, and you support BN, we will be fair to the Chinese," added Najib, who is also BN chairperson.

After BN made its worst ever electoral showing in recent decades at last year's 13th general election, Najib blamed the loss of his popular vote majority to an alleged 'Chinese Tsunami'.

The remark has since unleashed endless scapegoating of the Chinese community over BN's sliding support.

At the AGM today, Najib also ticked off MCA factions for infighting to the point that the people have gotten "fed up".

MCA, he said, has "lost its way" and called on the Chinese based party to close ranks.
