Prime Minister Muhyiddin Yassin wants all leaders and members of political parties supporting Perikatan Nasional (PN) to work hard, as if "the general election is going to be held tomorrow".

Muhyiddin, who is also Bersatu president, stressed that everyone also needed to reach consensus and hold discussions without feelings of jealousy to create an even stronger understanding among themselves.

"This is very important to ensure our future is more secure, and more importantly, when it is election time, the people will rise and give their mandate and support to PN to form the government.

"Don't ask me when the election is going to be held. What is important is that we must work extremely hard, as if the election is going to be held tomorrow," he said.

He was speaking at the fourth anniversary celebration of Parti Pribumi Bersatu Malaysia (Bersatu) in Kuala Lumpur last night, which was attended by party members from around the country as well as representatives of other parties in PN.

Muhyiddin also advised Bersatu members, specifically, to close ranks and maintain the party's image of being trustworthy as well as having integrity and dignity.

"...and to ensure we are successful now, there is no choice for Bersatu, we must strengthen our spirit of unity among ourselves. Don't harbour feelings of jealousy and envy, which can cause a rift among us, we must trust one another and help one another.

"Creating a strong workforce and strengthening the nature of trust, integrity and dignity as one of our guides would ensure the Bersatu image will always be supported by all Malaysians," Muhyiddin said.

He also explained that Bersatu's participation in Muafakat Nasional, which according to him was an invitation to join a coalition formed to combine Malay Islamic political parties, was agreed upon by him without hesitation.

"Without thinking too much, I, as president (of Bersatu), accepted the invitation to join the Muafakat Nasional coalition with Umno and PAS," he said.
