Tenaga Nasional Berhad (TNB) is upset over a blog where there is continued publication of an article, alleging the power utility giant would sue the World Wide Fund For Nature (WWF) over the 'Earth Hour' campaign.

It has lodged a report with the Malaysian Communications and Multimedia Commission (MCMC) for further action.

In a statement here today, TNB said that despite refuting the allegation previously, the article posted in the satire blog Nose4News, entitled 'TNB to sue WWF over Earth Hour' was still available for public viewing.

"TNB has never held a press conference nor issued a statement as reported in the article. The statement is a fake and fabricated by the blogger.

"What was written in the article was a complete lie because TNB has been supporting the 'Earth Hour' campaign because we believe it can nurture and enhance public awareness on the importance of climate change for the next generation," it said.

TNB hoped that MCMC would take appropriate action against those responsible for the blog.
