The Kelantan Umno liaison committee's move to win the people's support for BN through teachers seems to be paying off.

"This is a good sign for a change in the political scenario in Kelantan," he said when addressing one such gathering organised by the Pasir Puteh district education department at Sekolah Menengah Kebangsaan Tok Janggut last night.

More than 500 teachers attended the gathering where Kelantan Education director Hussain Awang was also present.

Mustapa, who is International Trade and Industry Minister, said teachers had a major influence on the people and could draw their support for the BN in both the urban and rural areas.
