

Was Zaid an Umno implant?

Disember 1, 2010

Remember the Umno episode that Mahathir used to illegalise the party, so that all the good work done by Umno from the beginning to then, would be wiped away and he'd get the credit for everything "good" that happened in Malaysia?

Remember how he used that episode to stamp his authority on the judiciary, and managing to corrupt it. Remember how he formed what was then known as Umno Baru. Now it became his Umno and not the Umno founded earlier by his predecessors of 46.

In fact they are not his predecessors - how can they be as they belonged to Umno and not Umno Baru.

Remember Ku Li's Semangat 46, that was Umno. But the Mahathirian plan saw an end to that, and from that day onward there were no more honorable men in the office of the prime minister, and from thence came the rot of our judicial system.

Now it looks to me and it becomes clearer by the day that this chap Zaid Ibrahim is a fervent apostle of this man we all know as Mamak Kutty, and he is doing an Umno on PKR.

I am sure he is an Umno implant, I have experienced this first hand back in the days when party of Nasionalis Malaysia (Nasma), formed by the likes of Zainab Yang and Ahmad Nor, were sabotaged by a group of Umno implants.

To those of you who are Zaid supporters be very careful, because many of you are real supporters of the party and these implants have a way of really convincing you that it is they who should lead for the future of the party. That is actually the way I thought during those days of Nasma.

Zaid is no novice, his actions in Keadilan were planned to disrupt. He knew who to go for to create a rift so he went for Anwar's faithful, Azmin Ali.

He went for the man who in all these years stood steadfast by the party at the time Zaid was enjoying Umno goodies in his legal practice, at the time when PKR did not look like it had a future at all, but then suddenly the Tsunami of 22008 struck.

It was like a bolt from the blue to Umno and especially Umno's elite of which Zaid was a part.

Now there was a real threat, and PKR could even topple the government of the day it was so real.

But PKR miscalculated, Umno politicians are people to whom you can't teach any new tricks.

They have been corrupted to the bone, and when Anwar openly took on the leadership with the cronyism and nepotism issues, they felt that he had grown too big for his shoes.

Anwar was just inches away from becoming PM, there was a real danger that all with ill-gotten wealth and ill gotten contracts etc, were about to be exposed with him in power.

Even Mahathir felt uncomfortable, and so with Sodomy 1 he put Anwar out, and very successfully.

Where was this "noble lawyer" called Zaid then? he was embroiled in the conspiracy too, by virtue of the fact he was an Umno man, and by virtue of the fact that by being in Umno he did nothing about the case, he allowed Mahathir to incarcerate Anwar.

Zaid tried to take on Azmin Ali (for the post of PKR deputy president). But Azmin played a cool game, he did not go for the fanfare that Zaid went for and rightfully has the support of the grassroots.

Zaid and his intentions have been read well, so now he contemplates the next thing, It's all from the Umno script, form a new party.

PKR should encourage Zaid to go ahead with this plan it will only bring in Umno votes and that will be good for the country, as it will split Umno.

In fact the new splinter party will be read as an Umno backed party rather than a PKR based party.

So be it. Form your own party, man.
