KUALA LUMPUR - Umno Youth will use a courteous approach when debating Malay issues during the party's annual general assembly starting Oct 19.

Information chief Reezal Merican Naina said the 13 speakers would be reminded to respect other races to prevent irresponsible groups from twisting their words.

"I will not impose any restriction on what they are going to talk but I will highlight certain concerns," he said.

Reezal said debate on issues would reflect the wing's strength and unity.

"We are not going to be racial. As a race-based party, they will be talking on issues that concern the Malays," he added.

The speakers would debate three motions namely the policy address by youth chief Khairi Jamaludin, economy, education and religion. - Bernama
