

World-class Parliament like Britain: Is Muhyiddin serious?

Deputy Prime Minister Muhyiddin Yassin said that MPs needed to debate competently with integrity and more thought, to make Malaysia's parliament world class. He requested they show decorum when debating and also hold greater responsibility when representing the people so that the nation's top legislature remained relevant and effective.

"After over half a century, what is clear is that we can transform the parliamentary institution in our country to be on par with those of advanced nations like Britain. I believe MPs from both sides of the divide share this vision and mission".

However, the chaos that followed the actions of the Speaker Pandikar Amin Mulia is far-removed from anybody's vision of a 'world-class' parliament.
