Penang Chief Minister and DAP secretary-general Lim Guan Eng's allegation that MCA has a connection with Perkasa is illogical.

In practice, the Perkasa had held a demonstration at the MCA HQ and had also urged its members not to vote for MCA in the coming General Election.

If MCA has a connection with Perkasa, why was it that the Perkasa had held a demonstration at the MCA HQ and urged its members not to vote for the MCA candidates in the coming General Election?

If what Lim Guan Eng said was true, does it imply that whatever organizations which had urged their members to boycott DAP would have stealthily collaborated with the DAP? This is utterly a senseless claim.

I advise Lim Guan Eng not to simply pin blame on MCA without any good reason, otherwise it would be ridiculous.

The move taken by Guan Eng was just simply to cover up the close relationship between the DAP and the PAS, as DAP had all the while supported PAS in trying to turn Malaysia into a theocratic state and also to introduce PAS Hudud Law in the country.

It is aimed at camouflaging DAP so that DAP's true image will not be obvious to the rakyat.
