

Hung Parliament? - Just Rump It, Just Like In Perak

I do not know why National Front's politicians fear a Hung Parliament? First, it was Daim and not far behind is our Honourable PM, Najib.

Now, why in world does Najib fear it? He has the experience of getting rid of the elected Pakatan Perak State Government and replacing it with a 'Rump' of his own.

And believe me, the sacking of the 'Rump Parliament' in 1653, bear uncanny resemblance to what happened in 2009 where the Pakatan Perak State Government was removed unceremoniously. Just look at the satire sketch above and the description attached to it and you will see the similarity.

Thus, if a Hung Parliament does happen in the 13th GE, the choices are plenty, just pick one from the many assorted Parliaments which the Englishmen had created in the 17th Century.

In 1624, the English had the Happy Parliament, in 1625, the Useless Parliament, from April to May 1640, the Short Parliament, the Long Parliament from 1640 to 1648, the Rump Parliament (1649), and in 1653, the Little (Barebone's) Parliament. (3)

Now, for the first time in history, Malaysia got a Rump State Assembly in Perak and if Najib's transformation is on track, we would definitely get a Rump Parliament instead of a Hung Parliament.
