According to Datin Tuan Sabariah Tuan Ishak, who was married to the late Tok Guru for 52 years, her husband was a busy man even during the early days of their marriage.

"I would not allow my husband to wear clothes that were worn out," she told reporters at her home in Kampung Pulau Melaka.

Brightly-coloured clothes were not her husband's favourites, said Tuan Sabariah.

"softer" colours, even for herself.

"Even though he never complained, I know what he disliked," she said, adding that her husband liked it when she wore white baju kurung with flowers sewn on it.

She also said that being a wife, one had to obey a husband's orders and embrace good moral values.

"I married at the age of 14 but I am grateful to have had a virtuous and responsible husband," Tuan Sabariah said.

> The daily also reported that a pair of lovers pretended to be a married couple for several months by bringing a two-year-old child to their love nest in Taman Sri Gombak.

Their charade was uncovered when Masjid al-Khairiyah Taman Sri Gombak officials and the police raided their condominium.

During the raid, a man in his 40s was discovered in shorts while his girlfriend was found hiding in the kitchen with her two-year-old child.

One of the mosque officials, Adenan Ahmad, said they handed the couple to the religious department when they failed to give proof that they were married.

> In a bid to save his sister's fiance, an 11-year-old boy drowned at Sungai Kelantan, Kampung Aur Duri, reported Berita Harian.

"Syed Omar was saved by hanging on to the pole but sadly, Isma drowned because the river was too deep," she said.
