SEPANG: Indonesian President Joko Widodo arrived to a warm welcome for his first state visit to Malaysia amid protests in the republic over an advertisement by a Malaysian company said to have insulted Indonesian maids.

Jokowi, as he is popularly known, was greeted by Prime Minister Datuk Seri Najib Razak as he emerged from the presidential aircraft at the Bunga Raya Complex of the KL International Airport.

He was immediately ushered to the official welcoming ceremony where he inspected a guard-of-honour mounted by 104 officers and men of the 1st Battalion Royal Malay Regiment.

Jokowi was given a 21-gun salute after which the national anthems of both nations were played.

He is accompanied by his wife Iriana and seven ministers on the three-day visit.

The Indonesian leader was later introduced to Cabinet ministers and members of the diplomatic corps.

He is due to hold talks with Najib at Putrajaya today where they are expected to discuss outstanding bilateral issues, including maritime claims, migrant workers, the haze and trade.

Malaysia and Indonesia have enjoyed growing strong ties over the years and this visit is expected to boost further relations in all fields.

Malaysian officials, when contacted, were puzzled over the Indonesians' reaction to the advertisement and hoped Jokowi's visit would be a success.

"The timing of the complaint against the advertisement is a bit suspicious as it was made just before Jokowi started his state visit.

"I suspect there is an attempt to mar the good relations between Maaysia and Indonesia," said a senior official.

It is understood that police have started an investigation regarding the advertisement and will submit a report to the Home Ministry.

Vice-President Jusuf Kalla is reported to have said that RoboVac Malaysia should apologise for the vacuum cleaner advertisement that asked employers to "Fire Your Indonesian Maid Now!"
