PUTRAJAYA, Aug 8 — Datuk Seri Najib Razak resumed work today after undergoing surgery recently on his left knee.

The prime minister appeared cheerful and healthy when he arrived at his office at Bangunan Perdana Putra at about 9am, according to Bernama Online.

Najib, who was admitted to the Kuala Lumpur Hospital on July 31, was discharged on Wednesday.

He later chaired a meeting of the National Economic Council which started at 9.30am.

This evening, the prime minister is scheduled to attend the breaking of the fast with Cabinet ministers, menteri besar and former prime ministers at Seri Perdana here.
