KUALA LUMPUR, Aug 11 (Bernama) -- The prime minister's wife Datin Seri Rosmah Mansor said she could understand parents' anxiety over the safety of their children studying in London due to the rioting and looting taking place.

"Although my children are no longer studying there (London), I can empathise with their worrying over their children's safety because of the violence in the English capital.

"I hope they can be patient and pray that the unrest will end soon," she said in her speech at the handing-over of Aidilfitri contributions from the Cheras Umno division to the less fortunate in the Cheras parliamentary constituency, here, today.

On Monday, student Muhammad Asyraf Haziq Rosli, 20, a Mara-sponsored first-year accountancy student at Kaplan College, broke his teeth and sustained a broken jaw when he was attacked and robbed by a group of rioters while cycling with a friend to buy food to break their fast.

Rosmah said Malaysians should be grateful and consider themselves fortunate that they could fast in a climate of peace and harmony although the country was made up of people from different backgrounds, culture and religions.

"We can also compare ours with the fate of some Muslims in the Middle East who are celebrating Ramadan in situations that are turbulent and filled with uncertainties," she said.

Rosmah praised Cheras Umno for the aid given to the less fortunate regardless of race and religion.
