The appointment takes effect tomorrow.

Littledale will assume leadership responsibilities across the group's accounting and financial functions.

Prior to joining AirAsia as group financial controller, he was the chief financial officer of AirAsia X, AirAsia's long-haul carrier, since its inception in 2007.

Datuk Kamarudin Meranun, AirAsia's deputy group chief executive officer and president of Group Finance, Treasury, Corporate Finance and Legal, said Littledale has extensive experience in all aspects of finance, including strategies, financial planning, technical accounting and business operations.

"Littledale has shown he has the expertise, knowledge and enthusiasm to participate in AirAsia's growth and to manage the complex financial elements," he said in a statement.
