JOHOR BARU: Prime Minister Datuk Seri Najib Razak said support for and confidence in the Barisan Nasional (BN) was now on the uptrend because it delivered on its promises unlike the opposition which was only good at talking.

"I feel in the last couple of days, the rise in people's confidence in the BN is because we have walked the talk. On the other hand, when the opposition makes promises, the people tend to be sceptical.

"As such, to continue getting the support of the people, (BN) leaders at all levels must walk the talk... promises must be kept," he said at a meet-the-people session in Taman Setia Indah here yesterday. Najib said in just three years, the government had been able to translate projects planned into reality which had brought much benefit to the people.

"If in three years we have been able to convince the people, imagine what more we can do in the next five years to come."
