NEW YORK, March 4 (Bernama) -- The energetic and superb performances by 26 primary schoolchildren from Permata Seni Negara at several functions here since Thursday received overwhelming response from the audiences.

The group comprising musicians, choir singers and dancers have been showcasing Malaysian culture and songs, not only at universities and a reception organised by the Permanent Mission of Malaysia to the United Nations, but also at a luncheon talk on the occasion of the United Nations Commission on the Status of Women Conference.

One of the spectators, Subra Bhattachairya who described the vibrant and colourful performance by the Permata Seni children as superb and fantastic, said "this is what we need to promote in our countries".

"Malaysia did a wonderful job in just two years (since the setting up of Permata Seni Negara," he told Bernama and RTM after attending a 45-minute show by the Permata Seni Negara children at the reception organised by the Malaysian Permanent Mission to the United Nations, here, Saturday.
