KUALA LUMPUR, March 15 (Bernama) -- Some 200 professionals engaged in the real estate sector are expected to attend the 22nd National Real Estate Convention here next month.

Currently, 150 participants from the public and private sectors and local universities have confirmed attendance for the convention on April 18 at the Sime Darby Convention Centre.

Association of Valuers, Property Managers, Estate Agents and Property Consultants in the Private Sector Malaysia President Choy Yue Kwong said more participation from local developers was expected this year.

"We look forward to the support and participation of professionals from the real estate and financial sectors as we know the coming years are critical for Malaysia as it strives to move towards a high-income economy.

"Real estate can play an important part in driving this transformation and growth forward by providing the infrastructures for a better living, working and playing environment in a sustainable manner," he said.
