KUALA LUMPUR, Feb 18 (Bernama) -- The debate between MCA president Datuk Seri Dr Chua Soi Lek and DAP secretary-general Lim Guan Eng has strongly boosted the morale of the MCA members as they gear up preparation to face the general election.

Many MCA leaders and members were delighted that their party president had managed to put up a good and substantial argument during the debate which was aired live by a local satellite television channel.

"You can see from the facial expression of MCA members and other BN component members. They were highly spirited after the debate. This is something new for the MCA.

"(It's) very rare that the MCA leader takes the bull by the horns. It is a morale booster and this debate has somehow brought back our self-confidence. It is very much a shot in the arm, and boosted the MCA supporters morally and spiritually," said MCA central committee member Datuk Ti Lian Ker.

Ti said Dr Chua's approach of putting up wise political arguments had allowed him to score more points among the audience as compared to Lim and this, he believed, would go down well with party members and other component leaders.
