KOTA SAMARAHAN, Feb 26 (Bernama) -- The Arab regime change riding on the wave of patriotic fervour will not guarantee a lasting peace and stability for it was driven by foreign intervention, said former prime minister Tun Dr Mahathir Mohamad.

He said it was a misplaced conception to think that a regime change aided by foreign powers and media campaign as patriotism for they have implicit agenda on the region.

Foreign powers played a big role in helping anti-government uprisings in the countries considered not protecting the people and acting against their (foreign powers) best interests, he said in his talk on patriotic and politics at Universiti Malaysia Sarawak here Sunday.

Dr Mahathir said any country that changed the government through foreign intervention would not be free from the clutches of foreign powers.
