

Wanted: Clean and fair elections
The Malaysian Insider
May 21, 2012
By Mohamed Haji Said

KUALA LUMPUR, May 21 — My name is Mohamed Haji Said. I am 65 years old, a retired corporate executive, a law graduate from the UK and called to the English Bar in 1968.

The only reason I attended Bersih 2.0 and 3.0 was that I want clean and fair elections.

Is that too much to ask of the prime minister and the Election Commission?

Who is the convicted former police chief to say that I have other intentions?

In other countries, the press don't care what ex-convicts have to say about the law.

I have been a Barisan Nasional (BN) man in the past. But now I don't think BN wants a clean election. I am convinced they want to cheat.

If BN wants to convince people to believe them they should use more credible personalities instead of an ex-convict.

Copyright © 2012 The Malaysian Insider

Source:

<http://www.themalaysianinsider.com/malaysia/article/wanted-clean-and-fair-elections/>