KUALA LUMPUR, Aug 1 (Bernama) -- Malaysia will host the 13th International Conference on Urban Drainage (13 ICUD 2014), said Drainage and Irrigation director-general (JPS) Datuk Ahmad Husaini Sulaiman.

He said the conference, which would be held for the first time in the region, would be held at the Borneo Convention Centre in Kuching, Sarawak, on September 7 - 11, 2014.

He said 600 participants comprising engineers, higher learning institution lecturers, drainage officers and local and foreign researchers were expected to attend.

"It gives an avenue for Malaysia and the countries involved to boost existing global cooperation and allow participants to understand deeply concerning complex issues on upgrading urban drainage and water management," he said in his speech at the pre-launch of the conference, here.

Ahmad Husaini said the organisation of the conference was a cooperation between JPS and Universiti Tenaga Nasional which culminated with the signing of a memorandum of understanding between the two parties, today.
