KUALA LUMPUR, Sept 25 (Bernama) -- Malaysia has been singled out as one of the top nations that represents a key growth pillar in the oil and gas business, says Lloyd's Register.

The international maritime classification society and independent risk management organisation will be sharing the company's engagement in mergers and acquisitions to fast-track business across the Asia-Pacific region and in particular, Singapore and Peninsular Malaysia.

"Asia is booming as the demand for energy increases, resulting in more offshore and production activities, and the International Oil and Gas Industry Exhibition and Conference (OSEA 2012) in the Asia-Pacific Region is a relevant platform as it gathers major industry players and thought leaders from around the globe at a single venue," said Technip Geoproduction Senior Vice-President (Business Development) Syed Feizal Syed Mohammad in a statement.

About 15 Malaysian companies will be exhibiting their products and services at the four-day event beginning Nov 27.
