KUALA LUMPUR, Dec 11 (Bernama) -- Barisan Nasional (BN) leaders must be smart in answering questions and addressing issues raised by the voters, especially those in urban areas, to ensure that their supports for the party would remain strong.

Former prime minister Tun Dr Mahathir Mohamad said today's voters were smarter than before, and hence the answers given to them must also be smart and full of substance.

"People now are getting smarter and smarter and they would want to ask questions about a lot of things, including the development carried out in their areas.

"So, we need to explain clearly about the development and how it would benefit them. We have to give smart answers.

"We must know how to explain it well, we must not ignore it. For me, a good leader will be able to give good explanation to the people, while bad a leader will not," he told reporters here Tuesday.
