KUALA LUMPUR, Dec 13 (Bernama) -- A module on integrity and corruption prevention will probably be included in three subjects taught both in primary and secondary schools next year, Deputy Education Minister Dr Mohd Puad Zarkashi said.

He said the ministry was in the midst of studying the proposal made by the Malaysian Anti-Corruption Commission (MACC) to include the modules into the subject of Islamic Education, Civic Education and Moral Education.

"We have received the proposal and is in the midst of studying it. However, we will always cooperate with the MACC in the aspect of cocurriculum, such as through exhibition and talks or a school visit to MACC office," he said in reply to Senator Roslin Abdul Rahman in the Dewan Negara sitting here today.

According to media reports, the proposed module was submitted to the ministry in June.

Mohd Puad said the emphasis on integrity from the school level could help prevent individuals from getting involve in corrupt practices when they enter working life.
