PETALING JAYA: Changes can take place in the country without having to change the government and Barisan Nasional has proven this, said Datuk Seri Najib Tun Razak.

The Prime Minister said major changes could happen under the current administration and Barisan is ready to make the change.

"Barisan is not a static party. Change can happen in our country and we have proven that it is not necessary for us to change the government but we can bring change with the same government," he addressed a gathering of some 1,500 non-governmental organisations.

Najib said Malaysia was experiencing actual change and progress and the results could be seen in the 5.2% growth in the economy, higher revenue and world acknowledgements such as being rated as the 12th best nation in ease of doing business.

Recently, CNN Travel regarded Kuala Lumpur as the fourth best city for shopping.

Najib said unlike the Opposition's Buku Jingga, the Barisan government has put in place a clear roadmap, with the aim to steer the country and its people towards a developed and high-income nation in 2020.

"We don't play with promises but we fulfill them. People can now see and question their (opposition's) credibility. Their weaknesses have been exposed. Barisan on the other hand have a clear direction and policy," he said.
